“Reading Inspiration Day”

Date: -15th Oct 2026

On the occasion of birth anniversary of Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam, the Institute celebrated Reading Inspiration Day (Vaachan Prerna Din) on 15th October 2026 to promote a culture of reading and lifelong learning among students. The programme aimed to highlight the importance of reading in academic excellence, personal development, and the overall growth of individuals.

The programme commenced with the anchoring by Miss. Monika Tamang, MBA II student, who welcomed the dignitaries, faculty members, and students. She introduced the significance of the occasion. A tribute was paid to Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam, remembering his remarkable contributions as a renowned scientist, visionary leader, former President of India, and passionate advocate of education and knowledge.

As part of the programme, students shared their experiences and views on reading. They spoke about how reading books helps them gain knowledge, improve vocabulary, develop imagination, and understand different perspectives. They also shared how reading inspires them to learn new things, build confidence, and develop a positive attitude towards life. Their participation highlighted the value of making reading a regular part of everyday life.

Following the students' speeches, faculty members expressed their views on the importance of reading in human life. They emphasized that reading is not merely an academic activity but an essential habit that develops critical thinking, creativity, emotional understanding, and ethical values. They also suggested practical ways to improve reading habits, such as setting aside dedicated reading time, choosing books according to personal interests, reading newspapers and magazines regularly, and making effective use of library resources.

Director, Dr. Bharat Kasar, delivered an insightful and motivating speech on the importance of developing a consistent reading habit. He emphasized that reading broadens students' knowledge, strengthens analytical and communication skills, and prepares them to face academic and professional challenges confidently. He encouraged students to go beyond textbooks and explore biographies, inspirational literature, newspapers, and books related to their areas of interest. He also highlighted that regular reading helps students develop independent thinking, make informed decisions, and become responsible individuals. His address inspired students to cultivate reading as a lifelong habit for continuous learning and personal growth.

The formal session concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Miss. Sneha Bansode, MBA II student, who expressed her gratitude to the Director, faculty members, students, and everyone who contributed to the successful organization of the programme.

Following the formal session, the Institute Library organized a Book Exhibition to encourage students to explore a wide range of reading materials. The exhibition was inaugurated by the Director, Dr. Bharat Kasar. It featured a diverse collection of academic books, reference materials, biographies, self-development literature, competitive examination guides, and inspirational works. Students and faculty members enthusiastically visited the exhibition and explored books of their interest.

The exhibition provided an opportunity for participants to discover useful reading materials and understand the range of resources available through the Institute Library. It also reinforced the importance of reading beyond the prescribed curriculum and encouraged students to make greater use of library facilities for academic learning, research, and personal enrichment.

The celebration of 'Reading Inspiration Day' was a meaningful and enriching initiative that reflected Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam's vision of empowering young minds through knowledge and education. The programme successfully created awareness about the importance of reading, encouraged students and faculty members to share their experiences, and motivated participants to develop a sustained reading habit. The event concluded on an inspiring note, reaffirming the Institute's commitment to promoting a strong reading culture and fostering the intellectual, professional, and holistic development of its students.
